Abstract: Although it only emerged in the 1950s and truly developed in recent years, informatics has played an indispensable role in human life. Along with the general development trend of the world and the region, in recent years the IT industry in VIETNAM has made new breakthroughs. Entering the 21st century - the century of informatics and automation - promoting the application of informatics in daily work is a top priority that the state cares about and invests in developing.
