

Building the electronic portal of the People's Committee of Luc Ngan District - Bac Giang

nan

Abstract: Today, the Internet and websites are no longer unfamiliar concepts, and they are increasingly becoming indispensable in life. People of all ages know about the Internet; it is also an essential tool for individuals and certain professions. It is precisely from this development that many Internet applications have been created to exploit the strengths of the Internet—a place where people can work without barriers of distance or time and can update information anytime, anywhere.
