

Build and develop the online mobile game "Dika Adventure"

Nguyen Quang Lam

Abstract: In the context of an increasingly competitive mobile game market, this topic focuses on building and developing an online game application named Dika Adventure. The objective of the research is to create an entertainment product that aligns with modern trends while meeting the diverse needs of players. Through the research process, the topic applies advanced technical methods in mobile game design and development to ensure the best content quality and user experience. Practical tests show that this result not only provides high entertainment value but also contributes to the development of the mobile game industry.

Keywords: Mobile Game, Dika Adventure, Application Development