

Build a website selling GYM supplements.

Tran Thanh Tung

Abstract: The background of this document is based on the growing concern for health and fitness, proposing a website development issue specifically for gym supplements. This study aims to address the inconveniences faced by gym members when purchasing supplements and provide a convenient service experience. By combining theoretical research with practical application, this project will develop an online platform that is user-friendly and feature-rich. The ultimate goal is to enhance user experience, boost sales, and bring a positive impact to the industry.
