

Building the TravelMate electronic tourism platform system.

Le Xuan Quoc Anh

Abstract: In the context of information technology and tourism service development, this topic focuses on building the TravelMate electronic tourism platform system with the aim of enhancing service efficiency for customers and partners. Through a combination of theoretical research and experimentation, the topic aims to solve the problem of managing tourism information scientifically and provide a convenient online transaction platform for the tourism industry. The expected result is a system applying advanced technology, contributing to business development and improving the travel experience of tourists.

Keywords: Electronic tourism platform, Information technology, Tourism information management