

Build an e-commerce website using the open-source Magento platform.

Vi Ngoc Anh

Abstract: This topic focuses on building an e-commerce system based on the Magento open-source platform. The context of the topic stems from the increasing demand of businesses for flexibility and versatility in online management and sales. The objective is to design and deploy a sales website, while analyzing the features, advantages, and limitations of Magento. The research method includes surveying modern technologies and experimenting with Magento to provide a comprehensive solution for businesses. The expected result is an efficient e-commerce system that meets the diverse requirements of the market and contributes to the field of online business management.

Keywords: Magento, E-commerce, Open Source, Sales website, Business management platform