

Build a website selling laptops and phones for Hue Lam store.

Luong Van Lam

Abstract: In the context of increasing digitalization, building a website specializing in selling laptops and mobile phones is necessary to enhance the business efficiency of stores like Huệ Lâm. This topic focuses on the process of theoretical and experimental research to build a web system that fully meets requirements regarding interface, e-commerce features, security, and legal regulations. Through this, the topic expects to achieve the main goal of providing a technical solution to optimize the store's retail operations through digital tools. The expected results will bring significant improvements in user experience and business performance, making an important contribution to the field of e-commerce.
