

Methods for managing marriage registration and birth registration with foreign elements at the People's Committee of Ha Quang District - Cao Bang Province

Hoàng Mỹ Xuyên

Abstract: In the context of a diverse population, especially the increase in international trade and tourism activities, the issue of managing marriage registration and birth registration involving foreign elements at the People's Committee of Ha Quang District - Cao Bang Province has become urgent. This topic aims to analyze the current situation and propose solutions to optimize the management process. The research applies a combined methodology of theoretical research and practical surveys to build an effective management system. The expected outcomes of the topic are not only to improve the quality of administrative services but also to contribute to ensuring compliance with legal regulations on international civil matters.

Keywords: Registration management, Diverse population, Information system, Public administration, International law