

Building a population management program at the People's Committee of Bac Son Commune - Soc Son District - Hanoi City

Nguyen Thi Thu Huong

Abstract: This topic aims to research and build an efficient population management system for the People's Committee of Bac Son Commune, Soc Son District, Hanoi City. The practical context requires a technical solution to improve the quality of population management services. By combining theoretical research methods with experimental implementation, the topic hopes to contribute an information technology application system for effective management. The expected results will bring significant improvements in local population management.

Keywords: Population management, Information technology, Bac Son Commune People's Committee