

Solutions to improve social insurance record management at Hong Dai Commune People's Committee - Phuc Hoa District - Cao Bang Province

Nong Ngoc Dung

Abstract: In the context of increasing demand for social insurance (SI) record management, this article proposes a solution to enhance management operations for the Hong Dai Commune People's Committee. The objective of the study is to develop and implement an effective SI management system. The method combines theoretical research with local experimentation to identify limiting factors and propose appropriate solutions. The expected results will contribute to improving the quality of SI services, enhancing the management capacity of the Commune People's Committee, and thereby strengthening the rights of the people.

Keywords: Social insurance record management, Social insurance management system, Field research, Business solution