

Build a website to find rental rooms in Hanoi area

Nguyen Giang Chuong

Abstract: This topic aims to meet the needs of students and remote workers in finding suitable accommodation in the Hanoi city area. The objective is to build a web system integrated with an online room search feature, helping users easily look up information about rental rooms based on criteria such as price, location, and amenities. The research process includes collecting data from multiple sources, designing a user-friendly interface, and deploying the application on a modern web platform. The system is expected to provide an effective solution for the real estate market in the Hanoi area, improve user experience, and contribute to promoting the development of information technology in the real estate sector.
