

Building human resource management software for An Binh Commercial Joint Stock Bank, Thai Nguyen branch.

Le Minh Dung

Abstract: In the current context, human resource management has become a key factor determining the operational efficiency of financial organizations. This topic focuses on building a human resource management software system for An Binh Commercial Joint Stock Bank, Thai Nguyen branch, aiming to improve service quality and professionalism in managing the workforce. The research method combines modern human resource management theory with practical implementation of software applications. The project hopes to provide an effective solution for the bank in human resource management, contributing to optimizing resources and enhancing labor productivity.

Keywords: Human resource management software, Commercial bank, Human resource management, Resource optimization, Application deployment