

Building a technology product sales website for Hoang Minh company.

Nguyen Hong Phi

Abstract: In the context of fierce competition in the information technology market, building a professional website to sell technology products is necessary to improve business efficiency. This topic focuses on developing an e-commerce web system suitable for the needs of Hoang Minh Company. Through theoretical and experimental research, the topic will provide technical solutions to build a user-friendly interface and integrate effective e-commerce features. The expected result is to enhance customer reach and increase revenue for the company.

Keywords: E-commerce website, Information Technology, E-commerce, Hoang Minh Company, Business Solutions