

Building a website to introduce the cuisine of Son Nu Restaurant - Bac Kan.

Ha Thi My Phuong

Abstract: In the context of the growing information technology and tourism sectors, building a website specializing in the cuisine of the Son Nu restaurant in Bac Kan province not only meets the information needs of tourists but also contributes to promoting local culinary culture. This project aims to develop a highly interactive web system, integrating content management features and a mobile-friendly user interface. Through the application of modern programming techniques, the project expects to achieve an effective website for providing culinary information and attracting visitors to the locality, thereby creating economic and cultural value for the community.

Keywords: Culinary website, content management, local cuisine promotion, information technology, web design