

Building a local area network for Thai Nguyen Steel Structure Joint Stock Company.

Hoang Minh Phuong

Abstract: This topic aims to build and deploy an efficient Local Area Network (LAN) system for Thai Nguyen Steel Structure Joint Stock Company, meeting the needs of information management and data transmission within the enterprise. Through practical research, the topic applies a method combining network theory with system deployment experimentation, aiming to optimize the company's work performance. Expected results will bring significant improvements in internal management and communication, contributing to enhancing the enterprise's competitiveness in the modern market.

Keywords: Local Area Network (LAN), Thai Nguyen Steel Structure Joint Stock Company, network system deployment, work performance optimization