

Application of information technology in managing work schedules at Hoa Phat Steel One Member Limited Liability Company.

Hoang Thi Nga

Abstract: In the context of the strong development of information technology, the problem of effective work schedule management has become urgent for businesses. This topic aims to research and propose a solution for applying a work schedule management system based on information technology at Hoa Phat Steel One Member Limited Liability Company. The method applied combines theoretical research and experimentation to evaluate the effectiveness of models and algorithms. The expected results of this topic will significantly contribute to improving labor productivity and reducing time management costs, while also demonstrating wide applicability in many industrial fields.

Keywords: Information technology, Work schedule management, Digital platform, Hoa Phat Steel One Member Limited Liability Company