

Building a sales website for Le Quang - Lang Son Information Technology Service Joint Stock Company

Nguyen Van Manh

Abstract: This topic aims to meet the online business development needs of Le Quang Information Technology Services Joint Stock Company. The research context focuses on the trend of modernizing business through the Internet. The objective is to design and build a professional sales website with user-friendly interface features, online payment, and efficient order management. The approach includes theoretical research on web design and practical application implementation. The expected result is to enhance the company's competitiveness in the market and increase online sales revenue.

Keywords: E-commerce website, Information Technology, Online business, E-commerce platform, Order management