

Building an inventory management program for Hung Thinh Computer Company Limited.

Luong Thi Nguyet

Abstract: This topic aims to research and implement an efficient warehouse management system for Hung Thinh Computer Company Limited, addressing the organization and operation of business activities through optimizing inventory management processes. Accordingly, the main objective of the research is to build a software program capable of automating the process of controlling, updating, and analyzing inventory data. The research method applies a combination of traditional warehouse management principles with modern information technology to provide a comprehensive solution for the enterprise. The expected results of the topic will include an optimal warehouse management system, contributing to improving productivity and reducing operating costs for Hung Thinh Computer Company Limited.

Keywords: warehouse management, management software, information technology, process optimization, enterprise