

Building an employee records management program at Great Global International Company Limited - Gia Vien - Ninh Binh

Pham Thi Xuan

Abstract: This topic aims to research and build an employee record management system for Great Global International Co., Ltd. in the Gia Vien area, Ninh Binh province. This not only meets the practical needs of organizing and maintaining personnel data but also helps the company improve management efficiency. Through a process of theoretical research combined with experimental implementation, the topic hopes to provide a suitable technical solution to optimize workflows and reduce the workload for the human resources department.

Keywords: Employee record management, human resource information system, information technology, data organization, performance improvement