

Develop a website to introduce phone SIM cards and support SIM selection based on feng shui.

Do Thanh Tung

Abstract: In the modern context, the demand for using smartphones is increasing, while choosing a SIM card that aligns with feng shui has also become important. This project aims to develop a professional website to introduce various types of phone SIM cards and provide tools to support users in selecting SIM cards according to feng shui. Through a combination of theoretical research on feng shui and practical web application development, the project expects to deliver an effective and convenient solution for customers. The expected result will provide an easily accessible digital platform, while also contributing to promoting understanding of the relationship between feng shui and the use of phone SIM cards.

Keywords: Phone SIM, Feng Shui, Website, Support Tools, Applied Research