

Building a food sales management program for the Ngon Quán restaurant in Thai Nguyen.

Le Van Tam

Abstract: In the increasingly developing context of the food service industry, effective management of the dine-in sales process at restaurants has become an essential requirement. This topic focuses on building a specialized dine-in sales management system for Ngon Quán-Thái Nguyên Restaurant. The objective of the topic is to design and implement a technological solution to optimize the sales process, improve service efficiency, and enhance customer experience. The research method combines information technology management theory with the actual business operations of the restaurant. Through analyzing the specific needs of the restaurant and deploying the application, the topic expects to provide a useful solution to enhance the competitiveness of Ngon Quán-Thái Nguyên Restaurant in the modern market.

Keywords: Food sales management, Restaurant management system, Information technology in food service