

Building a Website for Quang Son-Dong Hy-Thai Nguyen Commune People's Committee

Mai Van Hoc

Abstract: Research on building a website for the Quang Son Commune People's Committee to meet the information and communication needs of the local government with citizens. The goal is to create an effective digital platform, providing online services and more efficient information management. The method combines literature review research with practical implementation. The project is expected to improve citizens' access to government services and enhance local governance capacity, contributing to sustainable social development.

Keywords: Government website, local administration, digital platform, online services, citizen information