

Building a Website for Selling Computer Equipment - Quang Dat Technology Solutions and Trading Company Limited

Do Duc Dem

Abstract: This topic aims to research and build a professional website for selling computer equipment for Quang Dat Technology Solutions and Trading Company Limited. This is a practical necessity, helping the company improve its online business efficiency. The objective of the topic is to develop a user-friendly interface with convenient shopping features and customer information security. The research methodology includes requirements analysis, system design, application deployment, and testing. Through this, the topic hopes to contribute to the digital development of the business and provide an effective business solution.

Keywords: Online sales website, Computer equipment, Information technology, E-commerce platform, System testing