

Building a material management program for Dai An - Bac Giang Technology Joint Stock Company

Tran Thi Giang

Abstract: This topic aims to review and build an effective material management system to support the business operations of Dai An Technology Joint Stock Company in Bac Giang. The main objective is to optimize management processes, reduce costs, and enhance operational transparency. The research method combines practical analysis with new technological solutions to improve the system. The project is expected to bring significant benefits to the company by improving material management performance and supporting business decisions.

Keywords: Material management, Information technology, Warehouse control, Joint stock company, Bac Giang