

Building a sales website for Nam Linh Computer Company - Lang Son

Hoang Cong Chi

Abstract: In the context of rapid digitalization today, building a professional sales website plays an important role in improving the business efficiency of enterprises. This project aims to design and implement an e-commerce web system for Nam Linh Computer Company - Lang Son, combining theoretical research on website design with practical web application development. Through the development process, the project is expected to deliver an effective solution that meets customer needs well while providing a solid foundation for the enterprise to expand its online business operations.

Keywords: Sales website, E-commerce, Nam Linh Computer Company