

GSM network optimization

Nguyen Van Hoan

Abstract: This topic focuses on optimizing the performance and capabilities of the GPRS/MMS network in modern GSM systems, aiming to meet the demands for fast communication and data transmission. Through a combination of theoretical research and experimentation, the goal is to improve service quality, reduce energy consumption, and optimize network resources. The expected results will provide useful solutions for upgrading existing GSM systems, contributing to the sustainable development of mobile technology.

Keywords: GSM, GPRS/MMS, Network Optimization, Energy, Mobile Services